

CenturyLink® Hosted VoIP for small business.

A phone system that's a real benefit, not a real headache.

Your phone system is critical in a small business. But so is your time. So think about this: how much time and money do you spend on your phone system? When you add up the cost of desk phones, the system itself, plus maintenance and upgrades, it can come to quite a lot. That's time and money you could be spending on your business.

With CenturyLink Hosted VoIP, your calls are routed digitally over our privately owned network, no onsite PBX phone system required. Your employees can use advanced calling features to stay reachable and productive even when they are out of the office. We also include IP phones as part of your service.

Better connections, better business results

CenturyLink Hosted VoIP offers you a unified voice solution that eliminates inefficiencies, so you can focus on your core business.

Easy system management. Hosted VoIP leverages the industry-leading BroadSoft Broadworks platform, which includes an administrator portal for managing employee additions, moves and changes.

Simplified maintenance. This is a hosted solution, which means that we make improvements and implement technology upgrades for you.

The smartest features and functions. Not only do we provide you with VoIP phones and service, we deliver the latest features and functions, from intelligent call routing and unified messaging to whatever's on the horizon—and we proactively update it all.

Enhanced productivity. With access to robust functionality, your employees can stay reachable wherever they are. An end-user portal enables them to activate and disable calling features as needed, without administrator assistance.

CenturyLink's High-Speed Internet (HSI) delivers the best of both worlds: fast speeds combined with a private, direct connection to our network. It's the perfect option for a small business that needs reliability, security and a 24/7 dedicated support team.

Efficient voice connections drive employee productivity, customer satisfaction and business results. Give your company an edge. To learn more about CenturyLink Hosted VoIP, or to schedule an appointment, contact your CenturyLink representative.
